Eligibility & Requirements

Under the Citrus Australia Constitution:

- You are eligible to become a Grower Member, if you own, lease or both occupy and manage a farm. A farm is defined as a single parcel of land of at least 1 hectare, upon which at least 450 citrus trees (bearing fruit) are planted in order to harvest the fruit for commercial sale.
- If you are not a grower, but work closely with the citrus industry, such as packing sheds, marketers, distributors, retailers, processors, or suppliers of good and services to the citrus industry, you can become an Affiliate Member.
- You are not eligible to apply for an Affiliate Membership if you grow citrus in Australia.
- You must fill in an application form to apply for membership, however you do not become a member until the Board approves your application. They may ask you for more information about yourself and your business during this process. This will be done no later than the next Board Meeting (every 6-8 weeks).
- If your application is denied, we will refund your payment within the month.
- If any of your contact information changes, it is your responsibility to inform us.
- To support our non-profit organisation, we need you to pay your membership fees on time. If you're more than 90 days late, your membership will be cancelled.
- Becoming a member not only means we will support you as much as possible, but that we expect the same in return, and that you will act in a manner that furthers the objectives of Citrus Australia.
- If you conduct yourself in a way which is unbecoming of a Citrus Australia member, or which is prejudicial or adverse to the interests of us or the Australian citrus industry generally, your membership will be revoked. First, we will give you 30 days written notice and an opportunity to defend your motives, after which a vote will be made by the Board.
