Eligibility & Requirements

Under the Citrus Australia Constitution:

- You are a Grower Member, if you own, lease or both occupy and manage a farm. A farm is defined as a single parcel of land of at least 1 hectare, upon which at least 450 citrus trees (bearing fruit) are planted in order to harvest the fruit for commercial sale.
- If you have purchased land and plan to plant citrus, or your citrus is not yet bearing fruit, your Grower Membership will be for the minimum annual fee ($284.48).
- Your Grower Membership and vote holding rights can only be attributed to 1 person from your business (but we can add other staff to our database and mailing list so you can all stay up to date with the latest). 1 hectare equals 1 vote.
- If you are not a grower, but work closely with the citrus industry, such as packing sheds, marketers, distributors, retailers, processors, or suppliers of goods and services to the citrus industry, you can become an Affiliate Member.
- You are not eligible to apply for an Affiliate Membership if you grow citrus in Australia.
- If any of your contact information changes, it is your responsibility to inform us.
- To support our non-profit organisation, we need you to update the number of producing hectares on all of your farms each year, and pay your membership fees on time. If you're more than 90 days late, your membership will be cancelled and you will revert back to a (free) Levy Payer registration. We will follow up via email, text and phone to check in with you before this happens.
- Being a member not only means we will support you as much as possible, but that we expect the same in return, and that you will act in a manner that furthers the objectives of Citrus Australia.
- If you conduct yourself in a way which is unbecoming of a Citrus Australia member, or which is prejudicial or adverse to the interests of us or the Australian citrus industry generally, your membership will be revoked. First, we will give you 30 days written notice and an opportunity to defend your motives, after which a vote will be made by the Board.
