Who we are

CITRUS Australia Ltd is the recognised peak industry body representing the nation's commercial citrus growers.

Under the guidance of our skill-based board, the team at Citrus Australia provides vital services to industry across the whole supply chain. The organisation is supported by more than 280 grower and affiliate members.

Our vision

Citrus Australia has a two-fold vision:

- ▶ To maximise grower returns
- ▶ To grow export value to $400 million by 2020 (the value of export – $460 million – exceeded this in 2017)

Our values

Citrus Australia is a national organisation that values:

- ▶ Change

We will continuously improve our strategies, structures and programs to provide increased value and innovation

- ▶ Leadership

We will take a visionary national approach, act with honesty and integrity, and respect the environment by using resources responsibly

- ▶ Teamwork

We will build relationships based on trust; and retain committed, friendly, talented, professional people who are motivated to individually and collectively achieve shared goals

- ▶ Grassroots

We will be accessible, accountable and responsive to members and industry.

Our mission

As a grower-driven national organisation Citrus Australia represents and leads the industry in:

- ▶ Policy and advocacy
- ▶ Research and innovation
- ▶ Market access, development and promotion
- ▶ Communication and information
- ▶ Biosecurity

From the chair

IN WHAT will be my final chair report for Citrus Australia not only would I like to highlight some key achievements during 2017 but I would like to reflect on our achievements over the past 10 years.

From an organisation with eight inaugural members trying to get some runs on the board, Citrus Australia is now a nationally recognised industry representative body. We have key members in every growing region of Australia – with a membership base that continues to grow every month – and with Regional Advisory Committees in each region representing those members we ensure regional priorities are brought to a national level.

This is an organisation that has been instrumental in assisting growers to achieve record exports around the globe, including to China where in excess of 72,000 tonnes were shipped last season, which has led to increased profits, increased investment and unprecedented demand for citrus produce, nursery trees and orchards.

The past 12 months have continued to build on these foundations with wins in market access, increased biosecurity funding and record attendance at our annual events, which in turn has meant increased sponsorship and corporate partnerships to ensure not only are we holding great events with relevant content, but costs for our members are kept to a minimum. The purchase of our very own office building in Mildura saw us move from Lime Avenue to Lemon Avenue – read into that what you will, but the very essence of citrus is behind every decision we make.

It would be remiss of me not to pay homage to Judith, and while I know I do not need to remind anyone of her contribution to industry, I would like to take the opportunity to thank her for not only that contribution and her leadership but also her friendship to us all.

I wish Nathan every success in his role as CEO. I have every confidence that not only does he bring the right skill set to the table, but he brings with it a passion that will ensure the citrus industry is well represented at every level. Add to that the amazing team now working for you, the members and the whole of industry, across key aspects including market access, biosecurity, quality assurance and the Korea-China-Thailand program. I have faith that the industry will continue to prosper.

In closing I would like to thank the staff and members of Citrus Australia and our corporate partners, key partners and sponsors for their support over the past eight years while I have had the privilege to be Chair.

From the CEO

Introducing the new CEO

IN NOVEMBER 2017, former Quality and Market Information Manager at Citrus Australia Nathan Hancock took over the CEO reins at the company. With 17 years' experience working in horticulture, Nathan brings his industry knowledge and wealth of relationships built across the national and international citrus industry and supply chain to the leadership position.

IT HAS been a year of solid performance and positive change for Citrus Australia in the 2017 financial year.

Records tumbled throughout the year – there was a 'national shortage' of oranges early in the year with high prices paid by juice processing companies; retail shelves for Australian juice were left empty for months until supply came back on line mid-year; and exports exceeded 2016 volume and value by the end of September.

As always there were still a few challenges including the Imperial mandarin season, smaller fruit sizes for oranges and the frost impact in some regions.

Citrus Australia also achieved some significant records during the year including:

- ▶ Sold out Citrus Technical Forum and Field Day event in Mildura
- ▶ Led the successful inaugural Australian citrus trade seminars in Japan, supported by Hort Innovation and Austrade Japan with over 200 local importers, retailers, and food service representatives attending
- ▶ Hosted the Japan and Korean citrus export inspectors
- ▶ Hosted and featured in the China CCTV documentary about the 'famous Australian navel orange' which aired in China late 2017
- ▶ Facilitated and welcomed the announcement to improve the China export protocol
- ▶ Assisted with submissions into the review of the Modern Award
- ▶ Supported an enhanced citrus biosecurity and surveillance program
- ▶ Published four quarterly editions of Australian Citrus News, 18 fortnightly e-newsletters, 11 Season Updates and attracted more than 1,500 followers on Twitter
- ▶ Changed CEO
- ▶ Added two new market development staff members
- ▶ Launched a new website and e-newsletter format
- ▶ Finalised our first major property purchase (office building in Mildura).

As this is my last annual report I would like to thank the Citrus Australia Board, staff, members, sponsors, Hort Innovation, Plant Health Australia and the many other people I have worked with over the years in the Australian citrus industry. It has been an absolute honour to represent the industry and assist it to prosper. The future ahead certainly looks exciting.

2017 highlights: Export and trade

LEFT China imported an impressive 70,000 tonnes of citrus (predominantly oranges and mandarins) – a 78 per cent rise overall compared to last year. In 2012, the industry had aimed to export 20,000t by 2020 but has now exceeded that by more than three times the original target.

ABOVE Hort Innovation launched the biggest ever trade push in Australian horticulture's history with an ambitious plan to significantly grow exports by 2025, a key component of the initiative is the new 'Taste Australia' in-market export activity.

RIGHT Australian mandarin exports have continued to increase with 171 per cent growth into China with Australian mandarins comprising the lion's share of all Chinese mandarin imports. Good volumes were also exported from Australia to Thailand.

ABOVE The industry's participation in the Now! In Season Australian horticultural export program supported by Hort Innovation continued throughout 2017 with citrus presented in the Philippines, Vietnam, China and Japan. This display shows Australian oranges at Prince Hotel's Australian Food & Wine Fair Promotion in Tokyo.

In 2017, the National Plant Health Surveillance (NPHS) Program targeted the Sunraysia district for citrus focusing on citrus canker, Huanglongbing (HLB), the Asian Citrus Psyllid and African Citrus Psyllid. Surveillance was conducted in February 2017 on a total of 20 properties in the region.

Throughout the month of May (2017), the Australian citrus industry, with the support of the Northern Australian Quarantine Strategy (NAQS) and NT Department of Primary Industries and Resources, conducted biosecurity surveys of citrus plantings in the Darwin and Katherine regions.

Australia is on track to adopt some of the most sophisticated plant pest surveillance technologies in the world after Hort Innovation secured a Federal Government grant and co-investor funding to deliver a $21 million plant biosecurity push.
