ON THE COVER An appreciation of fresh Australian oranges has been passed down the family line to Oliver Estens, 5. Oliver is a grandson of Citrus Australia grower director Dick Estens AO and his wife, Lee, who together have 200 hectares of citrus in northern NSW and co-own Grove Fruit Juice. He was photographed by his aunt, Dick and Lee's daughter, film producer Sascha Estens of Rabbit Hop Films.

Who we are

Citrus Australia Ltd is the recognised peak industry body representing the nation's commercial citrus growers.

UNDER the guidance of our skill-based board, the team at Citrus Australia provides vital services to industry across the whole supply chain. The organisation is supported by more than 280 grower and affiliate members.

Our vision

Citrus Australia has a two-fold vision:

- ▶ To maximise grower returns
- ▶ To grow export value to $400 million by 2020

Our values

Citrus Australia is a national organisation that values:

- ▶ Change
We will continuously improve our strategies, structures and programs to provide increased value and innovation
- ▶ Leadership
We will take a visionary national approach, act with honesty and integrity, and respect the environment by using resources responsibly
- ▶ Teamwork
We will build relationships based on trust; and retain committed, friendly, talented, professional people who are motivated to individually and collectively achieve shared goals
- ▶ Grassroots
We will be accessible, accountable and responsive to members and industry

Our mission

As a grower-driven national organisation Citrus Australia represents and leads the industry in:

- ▶ Policy and advocacy
- ▶ Research and innovation
- ▶ Market access, development and promotion
- ▶ Communication and information
- ▶ Biosecurity

From the chair

We have a new political landscape in which it's not just the major parties that have a say following a surge in independents and minor parties, and we have to build a relationship across all of them – not an easy task but a challenge we have taken up with relish and sound results.

CITRUS Australia as an organisation hangs its success on both its vision and its mission:

- ▶ Our vision: a unified industry maximising value and returns to growers
- ▶ Our mission: a grower-driven national organisation representing and leading industry in policy and advocacy; research and innovation; market access; development and promotion; communication and information; and biosecurity.

Meeting and exceeding these criteria is how we measure both our relevance and our value to industry.

Our success last season in breaking all previous exports records in volume as well as value means growers are at last beginning to see the types of returns they need to ensure they continue to invest back in their farms and which they deserve for their efforts.

Finally, Australian citrus is beginning to be seen for what it is: not a commodity that should be traded to anyone who will buy it but a premium food that commands premium prices from consumers globally.

The other 'plus' side of this is that as our industry grows in value we see 'outside' investment continue to grow, both on farm and across the supply chain – this is vital for our industry to be able to capitalise on export opportunities afforded us by free trade agreements and growing demand from Asia.

Our first season with an increased R&D levy means the industry is in a stronger position to commission more work – work that has had to be put on the back-burner for many years due to a lack of funds; work that includes post-harvest agrichemical information systems.

Advocacy is never far from our minds as we continue to represent our industry on key issues: labour issues, agrichemical issues, biosecurity threats. It is imperative that our policymakers understand the threats our industry faces and what the loss of this industry would mean, not just to our dedicated families and business across the country but to rural and regional Australia and to the Australian economy as a whole.

At our previous AGM we welcomed Iain Evans to the board. Iain has afforded us closer insights into the workings of the political mind – an understanding of how we need to further cultivate those relationships across local, state and federal governments, and how it is not about complaining but about going to them with solutions in hand. We have a new political landscape in which it's not just the major parties that have a say following a surge in independents and minor parties, and we have to build a relationship across all of them – not an easy task but a challenge we have taken up with relish and sound results.

As this goes to print we have had our final board meeting with Dick Estens. Dick has been on the Citrus Australia board for three years, and the board and staff would like to thank him for his invaluable contribution over this time and wish him well as his own business enters a new growth phase.

I would like to take this opportunity to thank my fellow board members for their ongoing support of me in my role as chair and their dedication to ensuring our industry is sustainable and that grower opportunities are maximised.

On behalf of the board of Citrus Australia I thank our small dynamic staff – a team so dedicated and so focused that no matter how big the challenge and how high the mountain, they are equal to every task we throw at them. They are a big part of the reason our industry is enjoying the success it is today.

The profile of our industry is why we are also attracting the support we currently enjoy from our corporate partners and event sponsors. This support allows us to do more and thus assist our industry more. There are many industries these sponsors could chose yet they chose us – they choose you – so let's support them in return when we can.

The last thank you must go to the grower members of Citrus Australia who put their hard-earned dollars up so that we may grow the industry, fight for the industry and represent the industry in the way it deserves.

I wish you all continued success in the seasons ahead.

Tania Chapman
Chair

CLOCKWISE FROM FAR LEFT Tania Chapman met up with Horticulture Innovation Australia chair Selwyn Snell and South Australian Minister for Agriculture Leon Bignell at the opening of the Port Augusta SIT Fruit Fly Facility in November; Citrus Australia visited a West Australian grower-packer in August

From the CEO

Citrus Australia strongly advocated against the 32.5% backpacker tax – a tax that was eventually reduced after considerable industry lobbying and lengthy parliamentary debate to 15% on every dollar earned by backpacker workers from 1 January 2017.

This is the first report on the full twelve months of a new calendar financial year which also marks an incredible year for most of the Australian citrus industry.

For the first time Australian citrus exports exceeded 215,000 tonnes and a value of over $325 million. One prominent Riverina grower/packer told me that this has been the best season ever for both navel and Valencia oranges.

I'm delighted to highlight some of Citrus Australia's achievements during 2016:

- ▶ Held a successful Market Outlook Forum in Sydney featuring Kurt Huang from the Shanghai import market. The forum, conducted over one and a half days on 16-17 March, was attended by more than 140 representatives from the growing, packing and marketing sectors
- ▶ Assisted a record number of growers and hectares to be registered online for export
- ▶ Celebrated the third round of tariff cuts under the Japan Australia Economic Partnership Agreement with Australian Minister for Trade Steve Ciobo
- ▶ Pioneered the first Australian fresh produce WeChat lecture to promote Australian citrus. WeChat is the biggest social media platform in China, with more than 700 million active users. The lecture was delivered to the invitation-only fresh produce network of 11 groups and 4,000 participants and was followed by a Q&A, running for 90 minutes in total
- ▶ Facilitated a record number of National Residue Survey export consignment samples – 453 samples were examined from 26 Australian citrus exporters
- ▶ Secured minor use permits and an increased maximum residue limit for mancozeb
- ▶ Consulted with more than 200 growers at regional forums in Queensland, South Australia, New South Wales, Victoria and Western Australia
- ▶ Partnered with Plant Health Australia and governments to boost targeted surveillance of exotic pests and to cost-share the seasonal eradication of exotic fruit flies in the Torres Strait. Exotic fruit flies entering mainland Australia through Torres Strait could have a catastrophic effect if allowed to spread via Cape York to citrus-growing regions

- ▶ Welcomed a long-overdue increase in the national citrus R&D and biosecurity levies. These levies were raised from 1 July 2016 to $3.20/tonne (remitted to Horticulture Innovation Australia) and $0.30/tonne (remitted to Plant Health Australia) respectively, representing a total increase of $1.50/tonne. An additional $0.75/tonne is paid to Horticulture Innovation Australia on oranges for marketing
- ▶ Strongly advocated against the 32.5% backpacker tax – a tax that was eventually reduced after considerable industry lobbying and lengthy parliamentary debate to 15% on every dollar earned by backpacker workers from 1 January 2017
- ▶ Published four quarterly editions of Australian Citrus News magazine, 24 fortnightly e-newsletters and 11 Season Updates and attracted more than 1,000 followers on Twitter
- ▶ A surplus of $4,883 was recorded for the twelve months ending 31 December 2016.

We would like to thank our grower and affiliate members, corporate partners, volunteers and sponsors for their ongoing support.

The outlook for 2017 remains just as positive with strong global demand for premium fruit driving increased industry confidence, new plantings and purchases. Citrus Australia will continue to facilitate growth whilst boosting our biosecurity and protecting our key markets.

2016 highlights

Throughout 2016 Citrus Australia was busy organising events, communicating information, hosting visitors and putting forward the Australian citrus industry's point of view.

Images CITRUS AUSTRALIA, MARK KNIGHT

CLOCKWISE FROM ABOVE Cartoonist Mark Knight summed up concern within the citrus industry generated by indecision around the so-called backpacker tax, which threatened to cost Australian horticulture its source of seasonal labour; the NSW DPI showcased new varieties; delegates visited a packing facility as part of the information-sharing process during a regional forum in Western Australia; Citrus Australia CEO Judith Damiani spoke through mainstream and social media channels on key citrus industry issues; Season Update was distributed monthly; Judith Damiani represented industry at a Thai trade forum; attendees listened intently during a regional forum in Queensland

CLOCKWISE FROM ABOVE a touch of Disney magic helped to encourage young consumers to enjoy Australian mandarins; an escalating birthrate in China suggests a bright future where export demand for Australian fruit is concerned; Citrus Australia's Nathan Hancock and grower members Matt Cottrell and Andrew Harty and Californian citrus grower Alan Lombardi were among those attending the International Society of Citriculture Congress in Brazil; Citrus Australia ushered in the Year of the Monkey by wishing its Asian partners a "healthy, creative and prosperous" Lunar New Year; CEO Judith Damiani hosted a Japanese delegation's visit to Seven Fields at Mildura in August; Australian citrus caught the attention of consumers in Vietnam; Citrus Australia chair Tania Chapman (third from left) was among citrus and tablegrape grower representatives discussing the backpacker tax and storm recovery with Minister for Agriculture and Deputy Prime Minister Barnaby Joyce in Mildura in November

CLOCKWISE FROM ABOVE In August, Citrus Australia CEO Judith Damiani was shown through the Tokyo wholesale markets by Australia's agricultural counsellor for Japan; Yanco was the setting for a NSW regional forum in June; Judith Damiani met the new Australian Ambassador to Japan, the Hon Richard Court, in December before his term began in Tokyo in early 2017; the West Australian regional forum included a visit to the ALDI distribution centre in Perth; a South Australian regional forum was held at Loxton in May; Citrus Australia took part in a national Xylella preparedness workshop; inspecting the Sydney Markets in July; Australian Citrus News kept members informed throughout the year

Market Outlook Forum

Feedback on the forum was enthusiastic and positive:

International speakers:
“Very informative and excellent presentations.”

“I always like hearing from export panel members for the most up to date information: Ferdi Bergamin, Richie Roberts, Brett Jackson, Bindi Pressler.”

Tristan Kitchener’s presentation on retail trends: “An engaging presenter with very relevant and insightful content applicable to anyone involved in the domestic market.”

ATTENDEES at Citrus Australia’s 2016 Citrus

Market Outlook Forum in March learned from the event’s keynote speaker how imported fruit entered the Chinese market.

Kurt Huang from Shanghai was one of 12 presenters at the forum, which was held over one and a half days at The Menzies hotel in Sydney.

A second international presenter, Vanessa Perez from Austrade in Manila, delivered insights into the rapidly expanding Philippine market.

Citrus Australia market information and quality manager Nathan Hancock and citrus market access manager David Daniels also addressed the group.

More than 140 representatives from citrus growing, packing and marketing met in Sydney to explore current and future trends in the export, domestic and juice sectors.

Topics addressed included:

- ▶ Tree planting and production trends over the next 10 years
- ▶ Export market performance, challenges and opportunities
- ▶ Country of origin authentication, domestic market trends and new developments
- ▶ Prospects for new juice products and juice exports.

With the Australian citrus industry’s key players gathered at a single venue, there were invaluable networking opportunities both during the event itself and over drinks and an evening meal on the popular accompanying Sydney Harbour dinner cruise.

An overseas study tour courtesy of Citrus Australia and equipment manufacturer MAF Oceania was awarded as a door prize to one attendee, Mark Trott, Mundubbera, Queensland. This enabled Mark to travel to Spain and France with fellow Australian grower-packers in early November as part of a week-long visit to packing sheds, research facilities and orchards around Barcelona and Montauban (near Toulouse).

Boosting biosecurity

HUANGLONGBING (HLB), Asian citrus psyllid, Xylella (citrus variegated chlorosis) and exotic fruit flies were the key focus areas for the citrus biosecurity team in 2016.

Horticulture Innovation Australia (HIA); Plant Health Australia (PHA) and Citrus Australia have joined forces to deliver enhanced biosecurity activities to protect the Australian citrus industry from serious exotic pests and diseases.

Steps have included:

- ▶ Setting up a 'first detectors network' of trained crop scouts/growers, with all monitoring crops regularly at farm level for any sign of exotic pests
- ▶ Assisting NSW Government officers with surveillance of backyard citrus plants in Sydney and peri-urban Gosford on the NSW Central Coast
- ▶ Working together with Northern Australia Quarantine Strategy staff searching orchards in Western Australia's Ord River region, and retail nurseries (including Bunnings and Masters)
- ▶ Increasing preparedness for the arrival of Asian citrus psyllid and huanglongbing by reviewing contingency plans to address any potential detection of the vector-pest complex that has caused widespread citrus tree devastation overseas

CLOCKWISE FROM LEFT On the Atherton Tablelands in northern Queensland, monitoring of new lemon plantings was undertaken near Dimbulah; as part of a program of biosecurity awareness and surveillance, a grower meeting was held in Mareeba

- ▶ Devising a citrus surveillance strategy to ensure sufficient checks are being carried out often enough and at the right times and places to detect any possible exotic pest incursion
- ▶ Attending the national Xylella fastidiosa preparedness workshop facilitated by the Australian Government and Plant Health Australia in Melbourne in June
- ▶ Agreeing to co-fund a seasonal interception program to target oriental (papaya), melon and New Guinea fruit flies entering Australia from the north through the Torres Strait (using the increased PHA citrus biosecurity levy).
